

12.1. Personal pronouns and possessive determiners. Complete:

Personal pronouns as subject (nominative)		Possessive determiners
I	do	my	business.
You	do		business.
	does	his	business.
She		her
We	do		business.
You
They

	Personal pronouns as object (accusative and dative)
Can you help	me?
I can help	you.
They want to help
We don't help
Would you help	?
Of course, I help	you.
He can help

12.2. About computers. Fill in the gaps:

freak - ~~absolutely~~ - money - fast – free time – new - growing - best – screen - e-mails - her

My friend is ...absolutely... mad about computers. He's a computer He spends all his looking at the computer screen. He has just bought a laptop. Computer technology is so quickly. He always wants the equipment . He spends all his on it. His new computer has an incredibly hard disk and great graphics. My friend's sister also spends all her free time in front of the computer writing and chatting with friends.

12.3. Indefinite article and noun. A or AN?

Here is ...a... book. It's ...an... English book. This is easy exercise. That is glass. It's empty glass. Mrs Miller is young woman. Her mother is old lady. The walk to the station will take you hour. Fred is rather unfriendly person. But he has nice sister. Have you got headache? Why don't you take Aspirin? friend in need is friend indeed.