Bridget Jones's Diary

Delete the wrong alternative:

Bridget Jones's Diary is a British ~~action thriller~~ / romantic comedy film, based on the novel of the same name. Renee Zellweger is Bridget, Hugh Grant is Daniel Cleaver and Colin Firth plays Bridget's "true love" / father-in-law Mark Darcy. The novel is based on Jane Austen's work The Dogs of War / Pride and Prejudice.

Bridget Jones is a single / married, thirty-three year old woman who thinks she has a monotonous / an exciting and interesting life. She has some bad habits – swearing / smoking and drinking too much. Bridget Jones is frustrated / feels good. She worries about about her weight / mother. She works at a book publishing company / McDonald's drive-in restaurant in London where her main focus is fantasizing about her boss Daniel Cleaver. At a Christmas party at her parents' home, she meets Mark Darcy, a primary school teacher / lawyer. After their first meeting, Mark thinks that Bridget is a winner / fool, and Bridget thinks that he is nice and friendly /arrogant and rude. On New Year's Day/ April Fools' Day, she finally decides to turn it all around and starts her own diary / business, which covers all her attempts to stop smoking, lose money / weight, and catch / forget her Mr. Right.

Bridget and Daniel begin to flirt heavily on a holiday / at work and eventually start dating / gambling, despite the fact that he is a shy young man / notorious womanizer with a questionable personality / bank account. Bridget learns from Daniel that he and Mark have a future / history and as a result, hate / like each other. Daniel informs Bridget of their fallout, telling her that Mark broke their friendship by stealing all his money / sleeping with his fiancée.

Daniel's uncertain character becomes more and more hidden / clearer and clearer to Bridget, and eventually she breaks off their relationship when she catches him with another woman, his cousin from Burundi / a colleague of his from work in New York. She finds a new job as a cleaning woman / in television. In the meantime, she and Mark have a series of run-ins at a book launch, at a Hilton Hotel / bed-and-breakfast, and at a mutual friend's dinner party. During the party, Mark, who has come to the dinner with his colleague, Natasha / alone , privately confesses to Bridget that, despite Bridget's faults, he likes her if she became a member of Weight Watchers' / just the way that she is. He later helps her to land an important interview for work / paint her bedroom in pink.

Bridget begins to develop feelings for Mark. Just as Bridget and Mark's mutual attraction for each other fails / comes together at a birthday dinner party hosted by Bridget, Daniel comes back into the picture not being interested in Bridget any more / claiming Bridget's attention. Mark originally leaves the party, but comes back to face / avoid Daniel. Mark punches / kisses Daniel and the two fight, resulting in Daniel passing out. Bridget, still thinking that Daniel had been the wronged one, chastise Mark. Afterward, she tells Daniel that she would like / doesn't want to be with him.

Bridget eventually learns the gossip / truth about Mark and Daniel's fallout, in which Daniel had seduced Mark's ex-wife when they were still married. At a dinner party the same day, Bridget denies / confesses her feelings for Mark, only to find out that he and Natasha are both leaving for prison / to accept jobs in New York. Just as Bridget starts to embark on a trip to Mount Everest / Paris with her friends to mend her broken heart / find Daniel, Mark returns to stay with Bridget.

As they're about to meet / kiss for the first time, Bridget exits to her bedroom to sleep with Daniel / change her undergarments. While Bridget is changing, Mark spies / destroys her diary, in which she has written many nice things /insults about him. Bridget returns to find that he has left / gone to sleep. Realising that he had read the love letters / her diary and that she might potentially lose / hate him again, Bridget runs outside after him in a thin coat and her undergarments. Unable / Not wanting to find him and disheartened, she is about to return home when Mark disappears / appears holding a new diary. It becomes apparent that the new diary was to be a gift from Mark to give their relationship a fresh start / peaceful end. They kiss / say goodbye in the snow-covered streets and the movie ends.