Eric Bogle

Now when I was a young man I my pack
And I the free life of the rover.	a wanderer
From the Murray's green basin to the dusty
Well, I waltzed my Matilda all over.
Then in 1915, said, "Son,
It's time you stop ramblin', there's work to be"	walk with no destination
So they me a tin hat, and they gave me a,	50.000 soldiers of Australia died at
And they marched me to the war.	Gallipoli in a stupid and pointless campaign, which was a lot for a small country like Australia.
And the band "Waltzing Matilda,"	Every April, a march is held on ANZAC DAY to commemorate the Gallipoli
As the pulled away from the quay,	landings during the first World War, and the dead of the other wars. Australia
And amidst all the cheers, the flag waving, and,	takes it so seriously that the pubs are closed, the only day in the year this
We off for Gallipoli.	happens. Like all memorial parades it is both moving and yet somewhat pointless and pathetic. This song was written after observing one such parade.
And how well I that terrible day,	E.B.
How our stained the sand and the water;	with coloured marks
And of how in that that they call Suvla Bay
We were butchered like at the slaughter .	where animals are killed
Johnny Turk, he was waitin', he primed himself;	get ready for action
He showered us with, and he rained us with shell	grenades
And in five flat, he'd blown us all to hell, blew us right back to Australia.
But the played "Waltzing Matilda,"
When we to bury our slain,	place in a grave - killed
Well, we buried, and the Turks buried,	Contraction of the second seco

Well, we buried ....., and the Turks buried ......

And those that were left, well, we ...... to survive In that ...... of blood, death and fire. And for ten weary ...... I kept myself alive Though ...... me the corpses piled higher. Then a big Turkish shell ...... me arse over head, And when I ...... in my hospital bed

And saw what it had done, well, I wished I was Never knew there was things than dying.	A "Matilda" was the name given to the pack of an Australian Bushman. To "Waltz Matilda" (from German: "auf der Walz sein") was to carry
For I'll go "Waltzing Matilda,"	your pack around the bush.
All around the bush far and free
To hump tents and pegs , a man both legs, put on c	one's back –peg: pin to fasten the tent
No more "Waltzing Matilda" for me.
So they gathered the crippled, the, the maimed ,	collect, injured
And they shipped us home to Australia.
The, the legless, the blind, the insane ,	mentally ill
Those wounded heroes of Suvla.
And as our sailed into Circular Quay,
I looked at the place where me legs to be,
And thanked Christ there was waiting for me,
To grieve , to mourn and to	sorrow - regret
But the "Waltzing Matilda,"
As they us down the gangway,
But nobody cheered, they just stood and,
Then they all their faces away.
And so now every April, I on my porch	entrance
And I the parade pass before me.
And I see my old comrades, proudly they march,
Reviving old of past glory,	reason for pride
And the old march slowly, all bones stiff and sore,	painful
They're tired old heroes from a war
And the people ask "What are they marching for?"
And I ask myself the question.	S. Ster L. F. J.
But the band plays "Waltzing Matilda,"
And the old men still the call,
But as year year, more old men disappear	a the states
Some day, no one will march there	NO CONTRACTOR
